Teams work with the local people to repair roads that are affected by erosion

Construction Projects

Teams aid in building and painting schools, repair roads and even sandbag the sink holes to prevent further erosion.

Building raised gardens for women

Joining the HPI family gives you the opportunity to empower women with a raised garden. These gardens provide additional food for the families, but also allow women to barter or sell their harvest, they use the money to support their families.

Giving Tree Project

is an annual project that promotes reforestation. Children receive either a mango or lemon tree from the teams, given by a donor, to plant for their future. In five years the child can use the income from the fruit sales to pay for school tuition or as a secondary food source. The cost of a tree is $20.

School Sponsorship Program

For $100 a child in Haiti can be sponsored to go to school, purchase a uniform and school supplies. There is no free education in Haiti. 70% of the people living in the mountains cannot afford to send their children to school on an income that is less than $500 USD annually. Photos and updates of the child are sent to sponsors annually. Teams take the photos, provide workshops or summer camp programs and deliver the donations each year.
